

Foreign Credential Evaluation Services

The Texas A&M University Kingsville Office of Admissions evaluates all international credentials in-house. There are international admissions specialists who review and evaluate all international documents submitted in support of student applications. The time involved in the evaluation is dependent on many factors and varies from file to file.

There are instances when applicants would like to have their educational credentials evaluated by an outside authority. Reasons for outside review can include, but are not limited to, difficulty in the verification of document authenticity, disagreement with the TAMUK evaluation, and the wish to expedite the processing of an application file.

The six professional credential evaluation services, from which the Texas A&M University Kingsville will accept evaluations, are listed below.*
